

As Bert Williams said, "Some one must stay behind. Yes, Sir! Yes, Sir! Some one must remain." Those of us who spend the winter here and toil can now take nature's tonic, this vigorous March wind, and forget the past and step into the front to prepare for the summer's rush. No use kicking and finding fault. We have the finest country in the world and here the richest slice in all the United States. So keep smiling, pushing and knitting and soon the flowers will bloom and the summer visitor will be with us. No time to step back. Eyes Front! Forward March!

$200,000 DAMAGE IN CONCORD FIRE

Blaze Destroys Several Stores in Business Center and Threatens Hotel

Concord, N. H., March 5.—Damage estimated at close to $200,000 resulted from a fire which broke out shortly after midnight Saturday night in the center of the business district and burned several stores in two buildings and threatened the Phenix Hotel. Several tenants on the third floor of the buildings, including two elderly women, were partially overcome by smoke and were aided down the fire escapes by firemen and policemen. Harry Walker, a fireman suffered a broken foot, and Chief Kimball of the fire department, has a badly lacerated hand, caused by broken plate glass. The Capital Hardware store, in basement of which Chief Wm. G. Green of the fire department said the fire probably started, was completely burned out, the fire going through the roof. A portion of the Emmons Department store, one of the largest in the state, was also badly damaged, the stock in the part burning, being the most expensive in the store, including oriental rugs and fine linens and silks just placed in stock for the spring trade. The heaviest loss falls on Harry G. Emmons, owner of the Emmons store and building, this being estimated at $100,000. The Hill Associates, owning the Cyrus Hill building, in which was the hardware store and the Cudworth and Parlow stores was damaged $50,000 the hardware store $25,000 and other tenants' losses will probably exceed $25,000. At one time the flames seemed headed toward the Phenix hotel adjoining the Cyrus Hill building, and Clerk James Harrington awakened all of the guests and advised them to gather their belongings and be ready for a quick departure, but the firemen succeeded in stopping the flames before the hotel was reached, although the corridors and rooms were filled with dense smoke.

ESSEN PLUNDERED BY ARMED GANGS

Stores Looted and Many People Robbed --City Virtually Without Police

(By Associated Press) Essen, March 5.—Essen had the wildest night since the beginning of the occupation. In the early Sunday morning hours food stores were looted and others broken into by armed mobs, said to be composed of the unemployed. One of the largest cabarets was held up while the entertainment was at its height and several hundred patrons were robbed of their cash. This robbery was carried out by 15 to 20 men who the Germans declare were Communists. The city is virtually without police protection, and many of the citizens are arming for their own protection. Early Sunday morning a German workman was shot and killed by a French sentry and another wounded in the railroad yards. The French say the sentry ordered the Germans to halt and when they did not reply he shot to kill, as ordered. Duesseldorf, March 5.—The Germans hold the Ruhr allies indirectly responsible for the disorders in Essen early Sunday morning when several hundred patrons of a cabaret were robbed by 15 or 20 armed men, and mobs said to be unemployed caused destruction in various parts of the city by looting food stores. The expulsion of the security police, the Germans point out, has left the city practically without protection and the marauders took advantage of this fact.

LANDING LIQUOR ON LONG ISLAND

Federal and State Officers Seize Considerable Contraband on Connecticut Shore

(By Associated Press) New Haven, March 5.—Rum running along the Long Island Sound shores of Connecticut has begun, with the disappearance of ice from the bays and inlets. Yesterday state police seized 3800 bottles of whiskey and gin on two trucks in Westport and arrested four men. State police at the barracks in Centerbrook, only a few miles away, learned that two vessels were off the mouth of the Connecticut river Saturday and landed considerable liquor. Much of the contraband was taken by motor trucks at Daybrook Point and started inland. Liquor landed at Grove Beach was stored in a barn until loaded on a truck which the police intercepted. Federal and local officers today seized a motor boat and 120 cases of liquor on the Stratford shore and made three arrests.

DEATH CALLS WELL KNOWN PHYSICIAN

Frederick Tigh, one of the best known surgeons and physicians in this section, died on Friday afternoon at his home in Newburyport of pneumonia. He had been suffering with a severe cold and Saturday night had a chill. Notwithstanding his depleted vitality, however, he responded to calls for service that came from homes in which sickness was rampant, and, though himself suffering from pneumonia in its early stages, did what he could to help others until his own condition made it impossible. He was a native of Peabody and took a post-graduate course at Harvard. Dr. Tigh was regarded as an unusually skillful in surgery and a valued member of the staff of the Anna Jacques hospital. He was a member of the Essex North Dist. of the Massachusetts Medical Society and the American Association and had filled offices in the former. He was physician in the Newburyport lodge of Elks and

BOSTON OFFICER SHOT BY THIEF

Mounted Policeman Surprised Burglar at Work in Back Bay District

(By Associated Press) Boston, March 5.—Lester D. Hill, a mounted police officer, attached to the Back Bay station, was shot in the thigh by a man whom he surprised apparently preparing to break into a store on Jersey street early today. The wound is not considered serious. The man who did the shooting escaped after Hill had fired five shots at him without effect. A suspect was arrested later in the South End. Police today are investigating the robbery of $2,000 worth of jewelry from two safes in the jewelry shop of L. J. Pendleton on Chauncey street in the business district, and were seeking two men who held up a cigar store attendant on Huntington avenue, robbing the store of $400.

WILL ASSIST TAXPAYERS

The Internal Revenue collector's office will be open from 8 a. m. to 4.30 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. On Thursday and Friday from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. and on Saturday from 8 a. m. to 4.30 p. m. Next week from Monday to Thursday inclusive the office will be open from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. The purpose of the office extra hours on the days specified is for the purpose of assisting taxpayers who are unable to attend to the filing of their returns during the regular schedule of hours. Up to date the people have not taken advantage of the assistance offered to any marked degree and it is anticipated that it is important that they avail themselves of this privilege without delay, as the time for filing returns expires at midnight March 15, and but a short period remains. If the people put this matter off until the last few days many taxpayers will be unable to secure assistance.

Edward Little High School Five of Auburn Wins in Close Game

The high school basketball team was simply outplayed by the Edward Little high team at Freeman's hall on Saturday and there hangs the tale of a 30 to 26 defeat pinned on the locals. The locals did not play as fast as they did against the State College Freshmen a week ago and while they had a number of spurts in which they went at top speed for a time, they did not keep it up, while Edward Little plugged all of the time.

There is a sort of tradition among the local basketball players that the team that gets the first basket in Freeman's hall loses the game, and Portsmouth got the first two Saturday night. Of course it does not work out everytime, but there are some who can tell you the number of times it has failed.

The locals had an opportunity to win the game on fouls, 15 being called on the visitors but they were only good for six points, while only three were called on the locals and two points were made.

Portsmouth got the jump at the beginning of the game and when Badger shot the first basket and the locals had two in before the visitors got started. But after that they were only headed once. In the third period with the score 20 to 19, Lizio shot two baskets from fouls and Mara another baskets, giving them the lead 23 to 20, but the Maine team only allowed them to keep the lead for a short time when they forged ahead and dropped four baskets in quick order.

The visitors led at the quarter 9 to 4; and at the half 19 to 15, and the third quarter 20 to 19, and under the wire 30 to 20. Edward Little has the fastest team that has been on the local floor this year and has a smooth working five, who are good floor workers and fine basket shooters. Minnehan is a real star and is not only a good defensive player but is good on the offense, getting five baskets. Small and Costello are two good centers, the former getting the gate for four personal fouls. Hamilton and Shanahan were also good scorers.

Mara played the best game for the locals. He scored four baskets and was a tower of strength in his defensive work. Neal and Badger played good defensive games but Badger was not up to his usual form although he scored three baskets. Both Patch and Pike were pretty well covered by the visitors Pike especially being covered every minute and he was not at all sure of his baskets, although things were breaking pretty badly for him. The high school plays Exeter high here Tuesday afternoon and the winner will undoubtedly be picked to go to the New Hampshire college tournament Friday and Saturday of this week. The Exeter team on its record is not entitled to any such distinction, but if Exeter wins here tomorrow, there would be no question but what the locals would be dropped, but this seems improbable.

In the preliminary games the Seniors defeated the Sophomores, the latter getting the jump in the first half, allowing the Seniors only one point, but the Seniors came back strong and won 16 to 10.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes. Better than a mustard plaster.

FEAR ICE WILL DAMAGE BRIDGES

With the impending thaw likely to come at any time considerable apprehension is beginning to be felt concerning the bridges in this vicinity. Should a heavy westerly storm occur on the run of high tide there is bound to be considerable damage. The anchor ice in Great Bay which five years ago this month carried away upwards of 500 feet of the Dover Point bridge, and came down river damaging and threatening the Portsmouth toll bridge, is now said by veteran fishermen to be four feet thick.

ICE BREAKING AT HAMPTON BEACH

The anxiety which has been felt over the safety of the mile bridge across the Hampton river owing to the ice condition and the high run of tides was somewhat dispelled on Sunday when the high tides failed to do any damage.

There was fortunately a ground swell and this along with the mild weather broke up the ice to some extent. On Thursday dynamite was used in breaking up some of the ice, which had become jammed about the piers.

There is a good sized crew of men at work and they have succeeded in breaking up most of the jams, so that they do not expect trouble unless a high northwest wind sends the ice down after a thaw.

LITTLE FROST IN THE GROUND

There is practically no frost at all in the ground and while there is still a great deal of snow on the ground it is expected that it will be taken care of without an undue flooded condition. A resident of York digging away snow for a wood pile, was surprised in turning over some turf to find the angle worms within a few inches of the top of the ground and no frost at all in any part of the ground that he uncovered.

Bull Dogs to Play Kittery

The long looked for game is to take place at last and the Kittery team have not got to come to York either but the Bull Dogs are going to go to Kittery tonight and stage a game with the Kittery team which is long to be remembered by both towns. They have long succeeded in downing the Kittery five on their own floor and feel very confident that they can do it over again on the host's floor. They have improved very much since they played the opposing five as that was during their first playing. It has been some time since they were defeated, the last team to do that being the Marines, which team they have since defeated on the York floor. The Marines have since defeated the Kittery men which gives the York five some confidence.

It is expected that a large crowd will accompany them to Kittery as there is a lot of public interest in this game.

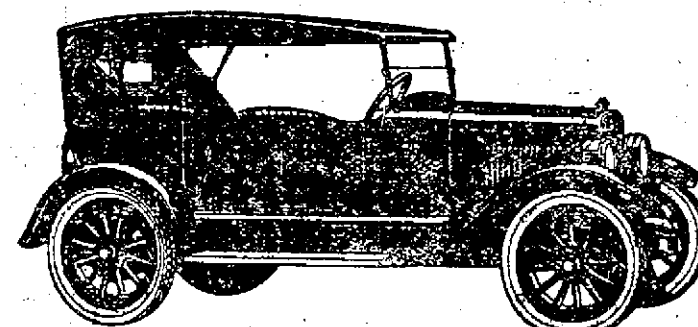

It is rather a task for the local five to get away from York owing to the fact that nearly all the players are men who do not get through work until late afternoon but for the benefit of the Kittery fans who think them cowardly Bull Dogs they are going to make a special effort to get there and unless a flood or a Northeast storm they will be on hand to show their sporting blood of which they have plenty.

BALTIC RUM RUNNERS HAVE GOOD BUSINESS

(By Associated Press)
Copenhagen.—Rum, not specifically the sugar cane product of Jamaica and Cuba, but rather any kind of alcoholic beverage stronger than claret and beer, is the basis of a smuggling trade in the Scandinavian countries and Finland that is rapidly assuming national proportions.
Most of it comes from Germany. There it costs one crown a liter, and it sells at a ready sale elsewhere at six crowns; hence there is a fine margin of profit for the rum-runner. Finland is a dry country, so there is no question of the market. Norway also is dry, but with certain limitations. Spain and Portugal compel her to accept a certain amount every year of wines like port and sherry, else they would not buy her fish, and Norway must sell her fish. Sweden has in operation a system of rationing which permits limited consumption, while in Denmark there is no limit whatever, every man can drink as much as he can afford to buy. But here the duty is fantastically high, and cost is the only prohibitive agent.
Occasionally the runners lose a cargo, but this matters not so very much, for the profits easily take care of any such incident.
The customs police on shore have been strengthened, and the authorities

CYPRESS TREE 2500 YEARS OLD

New Orleans, March 3.—The fifth oldest known living thing on earth, and the third oldest in North America, is a giant cypress tree in what is known as the Edenborn Brake, in Winn Parish, Louisiana, according to Carlton P. Poole of the Louisiana State Conservation Department.
The age of the tree has been placed at 2500 years by Professor Herman Schrenk of St. Louis and other scientists who have examined it. According to records, it is exceeded in longevity only by the Santa Maria del Tule cypress, near Oaxaca, Mexico, 5000 to 6000 years old; the Dragon tree at Orotava, Island of Tenerife, 4500 years old, the Redwood tree, California, 4000 years old, and the Baobab tree, Senegal, 4900 years old.
The Edenborn cypress was budding into life when Jerusalem was taken by Nebuchadnezzar. It was a lusty young sprout when the battles of Marathon and Thermopylae were fought, and when Assyria was at the apex of world dominion and when Rome was a village of mud roads and hovels. The tree was 600 years old when Christ was born in Bethlehem, a veteran when the Roman legions were withdrawn from Britain to leave the savage tribes of those islands to fight out their differences, and was more than 2000 years old when Columbus sailed into the Atlantic to begin his voyage of discovery.
The tree was one of a number of its kind in a track of pine timber bought by William Edenborn some years ago and when logging began he refused to permit it and three others almost as large, to be felled, although the giant contains approximately 23,000 feet of lumber. It is peculiarly situated for one of its species, for while the cypress usually grows in swamps, the Edenborn specimen stands in a hollow between hills.
One of the three cypresses left standing with it was felled by a storm some months ago. Mr. Edenborn has offered the aged giant and its two companions to the Conservation Department to do with them as it sees fit, so long as none is injured. The department plans construction of a high-

Why March is Most Dangerous

March is the most dangerous month of the year because of a change of season is more than a good many systems can stand. Too often it is true that the sick "last only till spring." But if the system is fortified, if the impurities are driven from the blood, and the nerve tissues fed with wholesome and strength-giving food medicine, there is no danger in the change of seasons. Father John's Medicine is invaluable as a tonic in the spring. It strengthens the system and drives out the poisonous waste matter—builds up the body. It is this power that has made it so successful in treating colds and throat troubles. No weakening stimulants, morphine or other dangerous drugs.

INVENTS DEADLY AIR WEAPON

Manila, March 3.—A Filipino in Calocan, a town adjoining Manila, has invented an air rifle whose projectile penetrates a two-inch hardwood plank. The Government has written "verboten" on the invention, as the gun is a silent but very deadly weapon.

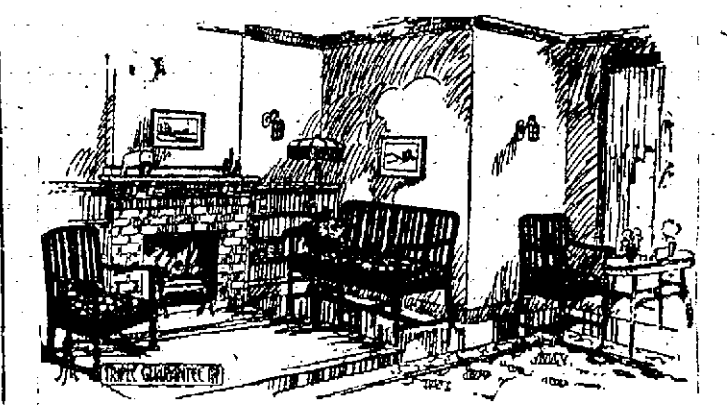

Conan Doyle describes in one of his Sherlock Holmes stories. It is called "hollow," and is simply a hollow tube about eight feet long, the hole being about the diameter of a .33-calibre revolver. The load, which may be nothing more than a sun-dried mudball, is placed in one end, and the user blows into the other. The load is discharged with surprising force. Birds are easily potted in this way. Arrows, as Doyle describes, may be used, with the barb poisoned. The weapon is noiseless. Nowadays it is chiefly used by little boys on bird hunts.

It must be a wonderful experience to push on into the Arctic regions until the northern lights are seen to the south. But Donald McMillan, Arctic explorer, who reports such a feat, gave the native Eskimos a glimpse of greater wonders to them than their flaming skies and crackling atmosphere were to him. In an uncharted tract near Baffin Land he showed the natives motion-picture scenes of crowded cities, "colleges, street cars and battleships." And the Eskimos found these wonders so much more fascinating than their own flaming skies, ice floes, spouting whales, polar bears, seals, walrus and musk-oxen that they wept, Mr. McMillan relates, when he folded up his apparatus and the wondrous pictures lived before their eyes no more.

Some of them were eager to follow him to the southern land of marvels, ignorant of or regardless of the fact that others of their race have lamented the day when they yielded to the lure and adventured into the soft fair country far to the south. The Eskimos who have come down to be looked at in world's fair "villages" have not only pined for their igloo and kayak, for the drink of hot blood from the seal, for the primitive northern life in general and the continuing cold; but have usually perished from tuberculosis or the flu or some other white man's deadly ailment. Even those who escaped suffered keenly from nostalgia and were eager to return to their arctic home. Climatic conditions become a part of man's life and when they are exchanged too radically nature itself is apt to rebel. This is especially true in the case of primitive races accustomed to the simple life in a quiet land, far from the frets, alarms and hurry of civilization.

A Two-Sided Question.

In harmony with the policy of his predecessor, President Lowell of Harvard University, in his annual report, urgently contends that boys should be put through college at an earlier age than is usual. He says, convincingly enough, that boys who enter college late are drawn away from cultural courses by their inevitable eagerness to prepare for their future work and are likely to crowd their college course into three years, thus losing much of great value which they might secure by entering a year earlier. It has been believed by many parents, on the other hand, that if their boys were not sent to college until the age of 18 or 19 they would have a greater because a maturer appreciation of their opportunity and therefore would take advantage of it to a larger extent. Obviously this is one of those questions on both sides of which there is much to be said.

There is one practical objection to President Lowell's plan. A boy sent to college as early as 17 is likely, under present arrangements to be obliged to shorten his high school course, omitting from it desirable studies and rendering college admission doubtful. Nevertheless there is much point in President Lowell's argument that there should be time for cultural studies in adolescence, before desire for professional training determines the student's attitude. Cultural education is of course the real province of the college, special professional training appropriately belonging to a later period in the student's life.

Degoutte's Plain Speech.

The French advanced into the Ruhr because, as Edison has put it, "it was time to do something." Now, after a month during which the French have shown remarkable restraint, evidently General Degoutte thinks it is time to say something and to speak plainly. This renowned fighter can employ words as effectively as arms, for the Associated Press thus quotes him: "Germany is branded as a quitter before the entire world; insolent, arrogant, pitiless in victory, but servile, self-pitying in defeat. Germany never will fight unless she believes she is stronger than her adversary. The moment she feels that an opponent is more powerful she surrenders. She pleaded and begged for an armistice under circumstances in which the Allies would have considered that they had just begun to fight. We did not quit after Sedan. We fought to the finish, we lost and we paid. If Germany forces another fight on us she will not stay our hands by crying 'Kamerad.'"

General Degoutte merely tells the truth that is known to all the world, and Germany may well take note of the warning in his concluding words. The Allies had the victor's right to dictate the peace at Berlin. In the armistice the French were denied the opportunity to do what the Germans did at Versailles in 1871. If the Germans do not wish to see the French masters of Berlin, after all, they would be wise to come to terms while they may, taking the medicine they so well deserve.

Cost of the Fleet.

The Shipping Board summarizes the experiment of our country in conducting a fleet of merchant marine as expensive. Most any industry would be expensive if it was conducted as our affairs are under the Shipping Board. What organization could have an army of high salaried men scattered about the country and make a success? Perhaps the Shipping Board could make the story read different if it practiced some of the economy the private concerns do.

CANNOT PLACE MRS. BEAN ON TRIAL AGAIN

Portland, Me., March 5—Ethel H. Bean, widow of Otis A. Bean, Haines Landing guide, can never again be tried for the murder of her husband according to an opinion given yesterday by William Pattangall, former attorney general, who was her chief counsel during trial at Farmington last week.

Mr. Pattangall, aware that there has been a difference of opinion among attorneys as to whether the state's motion for a nol pross, which ended the trial and set the widow free, protected her from possible future arrest on the same charge, consulted legal authorities.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

To the People of Kittery
Editor of Portsmouth Herald:
There is a rumor abroad in No. Kittery that I do not wish my name presented at the caucus, to be held next Friday, for your consideration. That statement is not true and was never authorized by me. I ask that my name be considered and that you accept me or turn me down as you believe, or disbelieve in the following.

I believe in regular meetings of the full Board of Selectmen. I believe that a majority vote should rule in all cases and that all matters of interest to the town should be brought before the full Board for a decision. Why have three selectmen? I suppose one reason is that none has yet been found who can dig up a majority out of two. I believe that the town office should be open at regular and convenient times to the public and that every book and paper be open for inspection. I believe in publicity in every matter of town business that is of interest to any citizen, in full and free discussion and the absolute truth at all times. I believe that a balance should be struck each month on each appropriation and held subject to your inspection, it will lead to greater caution in the office and will give you at frequent periods some slight chance of knowing what you are getting for your money. I believe in this system in all the business affairs of the town, as is used by every successful business organization in the country. I believe in no red tape, no frills, no needless use of money, but in a common sense get together so that we may both spend less and get more for what we do spend. Whether you wish me to serve you or not I beg of you to insist on regular meetings of the full Board of Selectmen and a majority vote to rule at all times and in all cases. The present method is a vicious thing—it makes it possible for two men to do your business—you say at the caucus you want three men—your vote at the polls says you want three men—without regular meetings of the full board two Selectmen, any two, can and will at times say "we don't need him two is enough," and I say to you in such cases Your Birthright is Stolen; your wish as expressed at the caucus is disregarded; your vote at the polls treated as a "scrap of paper."

If you approve of these ideas I pledge you every effort to bring them to pass and on these conditions only I ask for your vote.

E. S. FERNALD.

RUSSIAN SINGERS TO GIVE CONCERT

An event of much interest to music lovers is the appearance of the Russian Cathedral Quartet at High school hall on Tuesday evening. This is another high class concert given in the Teachers' Entertainment Course and it is said to represent the highest achievement in male quartet singing. It presents its native folks, gypsy and cathedral music.

These men were sent to America by the former Russian government to present the native music. They have appeared at the White House before Ex-President Wilson as well as in theatres, colleges and concert halls. They also give fine interpretations of American folk songs and classics.

JEWISH PEOPLE MAY SELL SYNAGOGUE

Biddeford—March 5—Negotiations underway may result in the Hebrew congregation of Biddeford selling their synagogue on Bacon street in this city and erecting a synagogue in another part of the municipality. A fraternal organization has outgrown its present quarters and is anxious to secure a new home in the central part of Biddeford. They have viewed with much favor, it is said, the synagogue as a desirable site for a fraternity building. A committee of the secret order recently waited on officials of the Hebrew congregation, with a view of buying the property. A figure has been named for which the property will be sold and a decision in the matter will be arrived at shortly by the organization. The Hebrews are looking about for a desirable site on which to build a house of worship in case the Bacon street property is sold.

UNION MEETINGS ATTRACT MANY

Advent Christian Church Thronged With Worship- pers Sunday Evening

The great interest in the union gospel meetings being held in this city was shown Sunday evening when a capacity congregation greeted the speaker. Every available seat was taken, children sat on the steps of the pulpit platform and men stood at the rear of the church, while others who came to attend went home as there were no more seats available.

The service began promptly on time. A combined chorus of fifty voices filled the front of the church. The song service, conducted by Walter I. Piper, of the Advent Christian church, was an interesting feature of the meeting. The congregation joined heartily in the singing. Praise filled every heart and reverberated throughout the room.

Special music added interest and inspiration to the hour. A solo by Harry I. Caswell, "The Four Be as One," by the Baptist mixed quartette, and an invitation song by the Adventist male quartette were effectively rendered and well received.

The speaker was the Rev. Edwin S. Tasker, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, who spoke on the theme, "The Power of the Gospel, taking his text from Rom. 1:16. He cited conditions as they obtained at Rome in the days of the Apostle Paul, and called attention to the moral courage required for a man to boldly assert that he was not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, particularly as that gospel ran contrary to the current events of the Imperial city.

"But does it require any less courage to assert the same in the city of Portsmouth at the present time," questioned Mr. Tasker. "Are conditions much more in harmony with the principles of Jesus?"

"There is in the gospel of Jesus Christ sufficient power to correct conditions and bring them into harmony with His teachings. You ask, where is the secret of that power? It is in the gospel itself. Try it and you will find out as definitely, though not as fatally, as did the wondering Korean who grasped the live end of a broken trolley wire.

"The gospel of Jesus Christ is an expression of power," continued the speaker. "It is power incarnate. A power which masters the forces of evil. A constructive power which builds the lives of individuals and communities. It is a New Life."

Mr. Tasker then illustrated the power of life as exhibited in nature; the power of the new life of the gospel as demonstrated in missionary efforts and the experience of grace in individual lives. He pointed out the fact that simple, saving faith was the essential requirement in order to experience the power of the gospel. He closed his discourse by a direct appeal to each one present to express his faith in the gospel of Jesus Christ and thus prove its power.

A spirit of deep thoughtfulness pervaded the audience as the speaker brought forth sparkling gems of truth from the age-old assertion of the great apostle.

The meetings will continue in the Adventist church through Wednesday evening, J. E. C. Powers, of Boston, will be present this evening and will conduct the singing. All meetings will begin promptly at 7.30. The public is cordially invited.

Mrs. Paulette Saludes is shown here as she appears in the Court of General Sessions where she is being tried for the murder of Oscar Martell, whom she shot and killed in his New York insurance office. She pleads temporary insanity.

GREENLAND

Greenland, March 5.—The Foreign Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. W. N. Odell on Friday afternoon.

Do not forget the costume party at the grange on Wednesday night. Every one come in costume or pay a fine. It is hoped a good crowd will be out as the town warrant will be discussed.

Miss Alice Dame has returned from a visit in Manchester and Derry. Mrs. Lee Babbirk and daughter Margaret are spending the week end with relatives in Goffstown.

The local schools are closed for the day, the teachers are attending the institute in Exeter.

There is a slight improvement in the condition of Mrs. Van Etten, although she is still very ill.

Mrs. J. A. Ransome is improving every day.

Reports from Mr. and Mrs. Moses

Howard are that they are at St. Peterburg, for a short stay before starting this way.

After digging through five feet of snow to reach parsnips we found as frost in the ground; just soft mud. This is good news as the snow will soak it as it softens instead of flooding the ground and cellars.

W. J. Holly is enjoying a short vacation from his duties at the navy yard.

March generally makes one feel winter is about over but a glance out of doors does not seem to corroborate that idea.

Advertising Sent On a Definite Job

Selling costs offer the acid test for all forms of advertising.

National advertisers are interested in volume, but much more interested in what that volume costs to get.

Advertising that goes to the country at large with no particular mission beyond "creating national prestige" is of little use in the battle to hold down the cost of selling.

Successful modern national advertising is addressed to a given job. Its well defined purpose is to cultivate markets where it pays to sell goods.

America is a collection of markets—all good for many lines of merchandise—few good for all advertisers.

Have you picked your markets from this vast assembly, Mr. Manufacturer?

Newspaper advertising, seen every day by all who read, covers adequately and economically every market on the continent.

SLAYER HIDDEN ALL DAY ON ROOF

Former Dover Man Gives Himself Up to Lawrence Police

Lawrence, Mass., March 5—George Athanasopoulos, formerly of Dover, who it is alleged, shot and killed Peter Masaros early Saturday morning and gave himself up that night by walking into the police station and handing over the revolver with which he committed the deed, told the police that he shot Masaros because of the latter's relations with Mrs. Athanasopoulos.

Two months ago he said that he discovered that the relations of Masaros and his wife were not what they should be and he upbraided them. They promised to do better, he said, and he forgave his wife and told Masaros to leave the house. Subsequently, Mrs. Athanasopoulos told her husband that she had somebody else to look after her and he left the city. He says that he spent sometime in Springfield and New York and then returned to Lawrence, going to his home on Concord street with no intention of harming anyone, but that he saw through a window his wife and Masaros together and climbing through another window killed the man.

Following the killing he hid in an alley and then went to his tenement block at 52 Amesbury street. He climbed through a skylight onto the roof where he remained all day. When he came down about 8 o'clock Saturday night he met a friend who advised him to give himself up.

Athanasopoulos is held without bail on a charge of murder.

James Baker Sullivan

The death of James Baker Sullivan occurred Sunday, the result of a shock with which he was stricken Saturday. Mr. Sullivan had been an invalid for several years but apparently had been as well as usual until Saturday when he suffered an ill turn from which he failed to rally.

He was born in this city August 15, 1858 the son of John and Ann (Baker) Sullivan and is survived by two sisters Mrs. Mark W. Rue of New Castle and Mrs. George E. Gilbert of this city, also two nephews and two nieces.

Services will be held from the home of Mrs. Gilbert, No. 210 South street at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and will be private.

Mrs. Abbie A. Grant

Mrs. Abbie A. Grant, widow of Stephen E. Grant, died Friday evening at the Columbia Hotel, Portland, Me. Mrs. Grant was born in York, Me., and for several years was connected with a hotel there. Later she was identified for a number of years with the Limerick House at Limerick and was well known by the traveling public at that time. Since 1916 she has made her home with her son, Stephen A. Grant, at the Columbia Hotel, who survives her, as also does a brother, Woodbury O. Dickson of Wells, and a niece, Mrs. George E. Ireland of Eliot.

Chamber of Commerce Issues Call for Meeting of Retail Merchants

That there soon will be lots of action in local retail merchants circles is shown by a call issued today to every merchant in the city, whether a member of the Chamber of Commerce or not, to attend a meeting at the Rockingham hotel this evening at 6.30 p. m. to discuss co-operative action of a permanent nature.

At a meeting of the retail trade board a few days ago it was decided that something should be done to have local stores present a united front for business and to stimulate a real "Buy in Portsmouth" campaign. Chairman George E. French assures the men action quickly and today every store had a message delivered to the owner or manager personally requesting attendance at the meeting Thursday evening. Evidently it was decided that there had been enough talk about doing something, and this quick action has caused the merchants to realize that they are to have some pep.

To conduct this get-together meeting Thursday evening a special committee has been named consisting of L. G. Peysor as chairman, R. B. Foye, H. T. Wendell, A. J. Trotter, H. P. Payne, John Hassett and John G. Sweetser. These will urge the attendance of every merchant, for in this way only can a constructive program be outlined.

Chain stores throughout the country are simply the results of co-operative movements of merchants. They are able, by putting their ideas together to combat the individual merchant who devotes his time to watching his competitor instead of joining with him for the benefit of all.

Managing Secretary Custard of the local chamber will tell of the many methods used by merchants throughout the country in stimulating business. Any merchant can attend. Simply call 970 and tell them to save you a place.

AMERICAN NAVAL OFFICERS DOING MUCH FOR HAITI

Activities in Sanitary Service, Fire Protection, Police Work, Public Works, etc.—Have Done Much For Island and its People

Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, March 2.—The technical skill, the energy, the intelligence and the hard work of certain officers of the American navy, all are being expended in the interests of the island of Haiti and its people. And the year 1922 was one of peace and progress. Much was accomplished and the work is still going on under American leadership. The Americans are teaching the Haitians to help themselves; they are endeavoring to train the Haitian personnel so that they may eventually displace all foreigners in island administration. Co-operation between the two elements, to this end, undoubtedly is making headway.

Early this year the American heads of departments made reports on the results of their labors in 1922 to John H. Russell, the American High Commissioner for Haiti, covering activities in the sanitary service, in fire protection, in police work, in public works such as irrigation, road building and communications; in the better lighting of the coasts of Haiti, and in increased shipping.

The so-called prison disease, which in the old regime claimed 1,300 out of an average of 2,000 prisoners, has been reduced to the vanishing point. In 1922 the percentage of deaths in the prisons was .017. The death rate of the gendarmes, numbering 2,414 Haitians, fell to the rate of 5.11 per thousand.

The completion of the intensive campaign against small pox assures the prevention of its spread for several years, and the recent fever epidemic of cholera, a form of bacilla dysentery, has been largely wiped out.

That the Haitians are responding, in greatly increased number to the free opportunities of American surgical and medical treatment is evinced by the fact that in the year 22,316 applied for acres of at present unproductive land in the great plain of the Artibonite are capable of irrigation. The newly completed division dam in the Mathieux River is also serving several thousands acres of land without tax for the water.

The River Control Service, throughout the severe, tropical storms of the year, kept the main road of the island open to traffic at all times. In addition its labors saved the city of Grande Saline, at the mouth of the Artibonite from destruction by flood.

Work has been begun on a 15-mile stretch of road that, when completed, will cut the present time of travel by automobile between the capitals of Haiti and Santo Domingo from three days to one. The new road will run from Las Cahobas to Commendador on the Santo Domingo border.

There are today 950 kilometers of road in operation throughout the Republic. Forty bridges will be erected at inland points where traffic has been impassable in the rainy season. A two-year program for new road construction has been improved.

Port-au-Prince now has a new automatic telephone system which will be extended to care for 800 subscribers. Pole lines for a distance of 1,500 kilometers were maintained in 1922 for the Haitian telegraph service.

The figures for last year show that telegraph traffic increased 25 per cent and the telephone traffic doubled. The lowered cost of operation and maintenance was 17 per cent.

Four new automatic flashing acetylene type of lighthouses, with a visibility of 16 miles, have been placed in commission in the past year. These additions to the lighting of Haiti's thousand miles of coastline, formerly regarded by seafaring men as the most dangerous stretch of coast in the West Indies, have given Haiti eight excellent lights. Other sites have been inspected and prepared that will afford a total of 15 of the new automatic type of lighthouses.

There was a gain of 22 per cent in the tonnage of merchandise carried by both steam and sail craft into Haitian ports in 1922 over 1921. The total of steamships of foreign nationality that arrived and cleared for the year was 2,297, with a total tonnage of merchandise of 115,057. The sailing vessels, both national and foreign, numbered 421, with a total tonnage of 36,156.

The American naval officers who have done so much for Haiti are on special assignment from the department at Washington. They include Commander Archibald L. Parsons, corps of civil engineers, U. S. N., chief engineer of the island; Major-General Douglas C. MacDougal, U. S. M. C., chief of the gendarmerie; Lieut. Comdr. James M. Minter, Medical Corps, U. S. N., chief of the sanitary service; and Lieut. E. J. Norcott, U. S. N., retired, captain of the port of Port-au-Prince.

VOLSTEAD NOT TO INSIST ON RUM FIGHTING

Washington, D. C., Cashing in on hard words does not appeal to Representative Volstead—the man of congress, most “cussed” by wets.

The much maligned man from Minnesota, it has been learned, has turned down a Chautauqua offer of $1000 a night to strafe the synthetic “demon rum.”

Instead of capitalizing his fame and carrying on for the dry cause when he leaves congress on March 4, Volstead who was defeated for re-election is going back to his law office on main street, Granite Falls, Minn. to practice his profession.

By passing up the offer, Volstead paves the way to his fondest hopes—to prove he is not a professional prohibitionist.

Destiny cold-decked this quiet, kindly, serious-minded Norsemann—whose friends swear by him—not at him—by making him chairman of the judiciary committee just when a law was needed to enforce the 18th amendment.

Law is one thing Volstead “don’t know nothing else but.” Since it was his duty, he drew a law that holds water—one-half of one per cent being regarded as such—in the courts.

Wets made the welkin ring when he was kicked out but they were not responsible for his defeat. His district was drier than old Tut’s tomb long before Broadway knew prohibition was not a breakfast food.

Now that he’s been kicked, Volstead has no hankering to return to the foot of the table. There is a lure about the senate however, and provided that Senator Knute Nelson does not run two years hence, Volstead could be persuaded to get into the race.

Meanwhile, back in his office at Granite Falls, Volstead will occasionally look up from a dusty volume and chuckle a few dry chuckles as he thinks of congress hunting for another dry “goat.”

NEW ENGLAND DOCTOR MAINTAINS CALLING'S HIGHEST TRADITIONS

(By Associated Press)

North Adams, Mass.—In this winter of heavy snows in New England the country doctor has been subjected to unusual hardships. With hill roads blocked by drifts for days, and sometimes weeks at a time, he has had to resort to many expedients to reach patients in isolated farmhouses. The use of snowshoes has been common, and one physician had built a special ski-runner equipment for his motor car.

One of the outstanding feats of perseverance in the face of difficulty and danger was that of Dr. John H. Riley, the oldest physician in this city. The January snowfall in North Adams was 39 inches, and in the outlying towns among the Berkshire mountains the wind swept the snow into huge drifts. Early one evening when a blizzard was raging Dr. Riley was notified that a little girl was apparently dying from pneumonia in a farmhouse on the side of Florida Mountain. A boy who had managed to work his way down over the half broken out roads in an automobile brought the word.

Dr. Riley immediately started out with the boy in the car. A high wind was blowing and when they reached an exposed point on the main highway the snow had drifted so badly that the car stalled. The physician, wearing a heavy fur overcoat and carrying his medicine case, started on foot up the mountain toward the farmhouse, several miles distant. On his way he met two men walking down. They urged him to turn back, declaring that he could not get through the storm alive. He refused.

After he had gone some distance the boy, who had succeeded in getting the car started again, overtook him. They were able to drive to a schoolhouse a mile and a half from the farm where the girl was lying ill. There they ran into drifts that stopped all further progress. The highway to the farmhouse from this point was hidden under snow many feet deep and Dr. Riley, familiar with the region, struck into a wood road where the forest provided some protection from the gale.

Plodding along slowly he suddenly found he had missed the trail, and brought up against a barbed wire fence. He followed the line of the fence for some distance, but could not relocate the wood road. He was almost exhausted and was on the point of discarding his overcoat to lighten his burden, when he saw the light of a swinging lantern. He shouted, but the sound of his voice was drowned by the wind. He stumbled toward the light and finally came up with the bearer of the lantern, a young woman, of the sick child's family. She had ventured out in the hope of meeting him.

After Dr. Riley had done all he could for the sick girl he borrowed dry clothing, walked down the trail to the schoolhouse, and came back to North Adams with the boy in the automobile. He had been at home but a few minutes when another call came for him. A woman was dying in Clarkburg, several miles distant. He started out without hesitation and was able to make this trip in his car. When he got back long after midnight he was nearly worn out from his experiences, but the next day he was attending to his calls as usual.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, D. C., March 15.—President Harding has been authorized and requested by Congress to enter into negotiations with foreign governments for the limitation of production of habit-forming drugs to the amount necessary for medical and scientific purposes. The resolution was sponsored in the Senate by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, who declared the present production of opium to be 1,500 tons a year of which only 100 tons are necessary for legitimate purposes.

President Harding's appointment of Senator New, Republican, Indiana, to be postmaster-general was commended in the Senate by Senator Harrison, Democrat, of Mississippi, who said the President's choice was “not only pleasing to all of his colleagues on this (Democratic) side of the aisle, but to every member of the Senate.” “No senator in this body has more warm friends than this most distinguished senator from Indiana,” said Senator Harrison. Later Senator New was presented with a silver loving cup by his colleagues on the Senate territories committee, of which he is chairman.

The treasury department expects to collect approximately $400,000,000 during March when the first payment of the 1922 taxes falls due. It is announced by Secretary Mellon. This estimate, however, it was said “is subject to great uncertainty, since collections during March will be based for the most part on the business of 1922, and will show the full effect of the changes made by the revenue act of 1921.”

Further work toward reorganization of government departments under the plan presented recently by President Harding to the joint congressional committee will be postponed indefinitely. The committee headed by Walter F. Brown of Ohio has decided that it will be impossible to hold hearings next summer. Mr. Brown explained some of the departmental changes proposed in the President's recommendation and arranged to send each member of the committee a more detailed statement later.

Eastern rumors that the Dollar Steamship Line of the Pacific coast has made a bid for the entire United States Shipping Board fleet or any part of it is denied by Sidney Henry, chief of division of sales of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, who said also that no bids have been asked for, nor will any steps be taken to dispose of any part of the fleet until the plans of Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board are announced.

WORKED 63 YEARS WITHOUT A DAY OFF

John McGrath, 76, of Rochester, N. Y., is taking things easy. McGrath has just retired from the Earle railroad after 63 years of service, during which time he worked seven days a week, every holiday and never had a vacation. He was never on the sick list, saying: “I never bothered to take the time.”

McGrath was a baggageman and began his railroad career before the Civil war. His first job was on the gravel train running in and about Attica. Later he was transferred to the Buffalo division and became brakeman on a run from that city to Avon. He came to Rochester in 1872.

McGrath was born in Ireland, coming to this country in 1850.

VAGRANTS IN SWEEDEN MAY BE MADE TO WORK

(By Associated Press)

Stockholm.—Habitual, nobles in Sweden will hereafter go to work or be sentenced to enforced labor for two or three years, if the recommendations submitted by the Government Committee on Legislation for the Care of the Poor are adopted. This committee, which has been at work several months, has made a thorough-going social and statistical study of tramps, organized vagrants, gypsies, and other anti-social types in the country, and now suggests penal laws designed to make good citizens of persons in the classes named.

According to the proposed laws a person liable to arrest as a vagrant must first be warned by the local authorities. At the same time the officers must take such constructive steps as trying to find work and lodging for the vagrant. This may be done through local employment bureaus, poorhouses and municipal institutions of similar type. If the person reverts to vagrancy and again makes himself liable to arrest, he may be sentenced to enforced labor for two, and in extreme cases for three years. For good behavior the culprit may be released under probation, and will be helped to establish himself in a gainful occupation.

The committee further recommends that women of low repute be treated as vagrants, though it is held that every effort should be made to redeem them to orderly life through the work of social institutions especially organized for this purpose.

OLD NEW HAMPSHIRE

(Written for The Herald)

Old New Hampshire State so grand,
With your streams and fertile land,
With your peaks and sloping plains,
We'll return to you again.

From far distant lands we'll come
We your daughters and your sons,
To help you celebrate your birth
And show mankind your true worth.

In the early days of yore,
Brave John Mason found your shore,
Then New Hampshire he named you
Like his old home, only new.

Your first city he named too,
Called it Portsmouth, as we do,
For this brave exploring man
Had great love for old England.

As a state you've proved the test,
Never failed to do your best,
On the land and on the sea
You stand out in history.

We have not forgot your name,
And we glory in your name
Always you have stood for right,
Even in the hardest strife.

Soon you'll see us in your streets,
Old and new friends we'll greet.
Nothing will we ever lack
With your guide, the little book.

Old New Hampshire State so grand,
America's Switzerland
We are coming back to thee
At your centenary.

—DOROTHY C. ROGUE

DECLINES RECESS APPOINTMENT

James G. McNary Will Not Accept Position as Comptroller of Currency

(By Associated Press)

Washington, March 5.—James G. McNary of New Mexico, whose nomination for comptroller of the currency failed of confirmation by the senate, was offered a recess appointment to that place today by President Harding but replied that he could not accept. After it was announced that D. R. Crissinger, the present comptroller, would continue in that office for the present despite the fact that he had been nominated and confirmed as governor of the Federal reserve board.

It was made known also that Mr. Harding had decided not to withhold longer the commission of Milo D. Campbell of Michigan as member of the reserve board. Although confirmed several weeks ago President Harding had refrained from signing his commission pending a senate decision on the McNary matter.

SPORT EXPERT SPEAKS TONIGHT

Jack Conway, boxing editor of the Boston American, all around sports writer and one of the best known athletic authorities in the country, will be the speaker at the social of Portsmouth Lodge of Elks in the Elks Home this evening.

The title of Mr. Conway's address will be "Picking the Winners." Mr. Conway a year ago threw discretion to the winds and for the benefit of his readers decided to take the ominous chance of picking the winners of all the important athletic encounters in the country.

In the first year he picked the winners of 110 out of 127 important bouts. Because of his familiarity and associations with all the sport leaders of the country including baseball, wrestling, boxing and track games, he has a fund of information and of humorous stories revealing the traits, habits, prowess and idiosyncrasies of all the important figures in the athletic hall of fame, including Dempsey, Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Speaker, Zyzsko, and the leading golf and tennis players and track stars.

Former Mayor F. W. Hartford, a past exalted ruler of the lodge, will preside. Each Elk is allowed to bring a guest.

Price Changes

The present situation in regards to Ford Cars has reached a point where we must take drastic steps to protect our customers and ourselves. It is hard to tell which condition is the worst: "the fact it will be almost impossible to get deliveries in another month or the threatening advance in prices."

With prices of raw material jumping every day to new high levels and finished products rapidly following in line it behooves us to get down to business and take future orders accordingly. We expect that tires will advance 15 per cent in the next ten days. The Ford Motor Co. has 50,000 orders for cars for March delivery, more than they can possibly build if they work at capacity every day. The embargo and shortage of freight cars is worse than it was a month ago.

Therefore after March 5, we will take orders for Ford Cars at present prices as long as our stock lasts. When our stock is exhausted orders will be taken subject to change in price, and deliveries will be made in rotation according to date of orders.

We believe that you should know the true situation in regards to the market conditions as it affects Ford Cars.

DOUBLE MURDER AT SHOALS FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Fifty years ago today Louis Wagner, a Prussian, and one of the fishermen at the Isle of Shoals, committed a double murder on Smutty-Nose Island. He was arrested in Boston later for the horrible crime. He killed two women with an axe. The third escaped in her night clothes and bare feet and hid among the rocks until daylight when she signalled some fishermen who came ashore and found the dead bodies of the other two. Wagner was hung in York County and is said to have been the last man to suffer the death penalty in the state of Maine.

There was much controversy as to whether the murder occurred in Maine or New Hampshire. Wagner was finally turned over to the York County authorities and the correct boundary line decided between the two states.

The coroner's jury in the case made a night trip to the island in the navy yard steamer Mayflower and consisted of the following: Coroner Jenkins, Calvin L. Hayes, Dr. Daniel W. Jones, James O. Trefethen, George C. Ireland, Albert A. Hayes, Stephen F. Shaw, and Deputy Sheriff Richard O. Philbrick of Kittery. The motive of the crime was robbery.

CHATS WITH YOUR GAS MAN

IN a series of tests made recently by the Kansas State Agricultural College, gas water heaters were found to be far more efficient than heaters fired with coal, kerosene or gasoline.

The tests were devised to show the relative ability of the heaters to deliver a continuous supply of hot water, and to give a quantity of water a definite rise in temperature in an hour.

The percentage of heat-units in the fuel consumed actually accounted for in hot water delivered by the heaters was:

Coal 18%
Kerosene 37%
Gasoline 40%
Manufactured Gas.....64%

This is "just another" test to prove that "if it's done with heat, you can do it better with gas."
